Vedic astrology or western astrology more accurate

Since the 19th century, Vedic astrology is a relatable term to Indian astrology and Hindu Astrology, which seems to be followed by Jyotish. Vedic Astrology is a crucial feature of astronomy. Vedic Astrology is based on the belief that the stars and planets have a powerful impact on our individual lives. The ancient Indian Vedic astrology differs from western astrology. Vedic astrology works on observation of the planets' positions and the notion of precise birth details of individuals. Vedic astrology is a part of Jyotish shastra. How are Our Lives Affected by the Planets? In Ancient Vedas, It believed that planets influence our individual lives in each stage of life. Astrology says that our mind, body, and soul are interconnected with the constellation in the sky, nakshatras, and planets. The planets are not only a point in the sky but they play a crucial role in our life. Likewise, the greek Vedic Shastra recognizes that there are the main four goals of human life, dharma, Artha, kama, and moksha. These goals are a part of Vedic astrology, in which astrology acknowledges us to navigate and fulfill these four goals in our life. Difference Between Vedic & Western Astrology The fundamental difference between Vedic and western astrology is Vedic astrology considers the tropical astrology system and western astrology considers the sidereal astrology system. These are two(tropical and sidereal astrology) different terms related to ecliptic coordinates. Sidereal astrology favors movable zodiac signs that are corrective systems known as the Ayanamsa (A yana movement). Tropical astrology does not consider such measures. The Tropical astrology system fixes the vernal point to 0 degrees of Aries and describes the rest of the zodiac from this point. Tropical astrology defines the year which is immovable. Astrology is a piece of Vedic literature, Vedic Astrology bounds with both spiritual and material knowledge. It is an ancient and traditional astrology system while western astrology is a very irregular astrology system. Western astrology does not have logical or theoretical training of spiritual firm but Vedic Astrology has. While when it comes to spiritual vision and potential that is so essential for an astrologer to guide others correctly. A horoscope or zodiac sign report is an illustrative depiction of constellations, planets at the time of individual births. Why Vedic Astrology is more accurate? Institute of Vedic Astrology Reviews Western V/s Vedic Astrology Institute of Vedic Astrology Indore gives a detailed difference analysis of Western Astrology Vs Indian Vedic Astrology on various aspects. The roots of astrology flourished in India and gained immense popularity throughout the world. The earlier expression for Vedic astrology was simply "Jyotish Shastra (Jyotisam)" which means the science of the light. Vedic astrology is a sacred science, which was revealed by the great saints of India, more than 5000 years ago and was encompassed from generation to generation giving solution to people's distress, bad luck and problems. Western astrology on the other hand is the system of astrological predictions most popular in western countries. Indian astrology mostly deals with horoscope, which means, it is a form of prediction and analogy based on the construction of a horoscope for an exact moment, such as the time of a baby's birth, in which various planetary bodies are said to have an influence. Astrology in west mostly deals with an individual's date of birth only. Apart from this basic difference Vedic and western astrology differs in many ways. Let's have a detailed look at the major differences between both of them- The way Zodiac is seen in both of these astrological forms One of the major differences between the two systems is the way the zodiac is looked at itself. Western astrology uses a zodiac based on the seasons whereas in Vedic astrology the zodiac is based on Sidereal Zodiac which means the actual constellations in the sky. Meaning, if you have a sun sign Leo according to the Western astrology, it is likely that the sun was actually in the constellation of cancer, the stars of cancer, during the time of your birth. Difference in calculation of events Vedic astrology gives importance to the date and time of birth of a person to calculate about the important events in his life. Western astrology on the other hand focuses only on the date of birth and not the time which often makes the predictions not so accurate. Western astrology mostly deals with horoscope where the sky is divided into 27 constellations, which form a base of all astrological calculations over there along with the sun. Emphasis on Sun VS Moon The Western astrology gives greater emphasis to the position of the Sun in a specific sun sign in comparison to Vedic astrology where the sole emphasis is on the position of the Moon in a sign along with the Ascendant (Lagna). Solar-based system is better at evaluating the personality and characteristics of a person. Lunar based system on the other hand is better at describing the soul nature and predicting the future events. The Planets included for calculation In western astrology planets Rahu and Ketu do not exist, while in Vedic Astrology Rahu and Ketu are taken as the shadow planets, which are very important to calculate the characteristics of human karma and other important moments. In west the astrologers use the planets Uranus, Pluto, Neptune. But sadly the influence of these planets on our characteristic, life and other important events has not been established. This is the reason why modern Western schools are now beginning not to consider these planets for the astrological calculation. In Vedic astrology the astrologers use the seven planets and two moon nodes: Rahu (Dragon Head) and Ketu (Dragon Tail). The Vedic astrologers work with the nine planets, though sometimes in order to get more accurate predictions they even include the dark combinations such as Yamagantaka, Vyatipata, Paridhi, Upaketu, Indrachapa Mandi, Gulick, Mityu, Dhuma, Aridhagrahara and Kaala. Birth Chart In western astrology, there is no birth chart. In Vedic astrology on the other hand the shape of the birth chart is square, and it is divided into 12 sections. Each section is marked by three points one for sign, second for the planets and third for the house. Sidereal Zodiac VS Tropical Zodiac The Vedic astrology basically applies the same position of the planets that are used by the astronomers against the background of certain unchanging stellar lights or fixed stars which is called the "sidereal zodiac". Hence, the term Astronomy covers astrology as well as the study of the nine planets. Western astrology is totally based on the orientation of the Earth to the Sun and uses the concept of "Tropical zodiac". It is believed in western astrology that every year the Sun is at the first degree of Aries and Libra respectively at the spring and autumnal equinoxes, and at the first degree of Cancer and Capricorn at the summer and winter solstices. As a result of this popular belief, the tropical zodiac ignores the Precession of the Equinoxes which is an important astronomical event. House System There is a difference in the house system as well between these two astrological forms. Vedic astrologers use whole-sign houses, where the 1st house is the sign occupied by the Ascendant. Vedic astrology classifies the houses in many ways that are still not known by the Western astrologer such as they name the four angular houses (1st, 4th, 7th, 10th) as kendras and are the place of power. The (1st, 5th, 9th) on the other hand are called trikonas and hold the places of good fortune and opportunity. Which is better Vedic Astrology or Western Astrology? All of these differences make it quite clear that both of these forms of astrology hold their own importance. Western astrology uses a different system which is much more like an open system where the traditional methods are not given too much of importance to prepare the birth chart. In Vedic astrology, on the other hand, traditional methods form the base of calculation and analogy. The outer planets are not used over here because we cannot see them through our naked eyes. The best thing about Vedic astrology is that planets over here are directly related to energizing factors such as yoga, ayurveda, and many other important spiritual assets of India. Western astrology can sometimes give absurd results because over here the astrologers believe in Sun sign which is fixed for one month compared to Vedic astrology in which we give emphasis to the Moon fixed for 2.25 days. Let's have a quick glance at why Vedic astrology is different than western astrology- Moon Houses In Western Astrology Moon houses do not hold much importance. Over here the main planet is the Sun and all importance is given to its placement. Vedic Astrology on the other hand gives importance to the moon houses. There are 27 Constellations in Vedic astrology. They are the most crucial element for time related predictions. It is possible to know about the best moments in life to start a successful business, buy a property or perform ceremonies like marriages, partnerships or house warming procedures. The Nakshatras are also very important in evaluating the characteristic of a person and to deeply understand the mental state of a person. While the Vedic astrology can give more detailed results by focusing on the moon, western astrology fails to give such accurate results. Matching Horoscope Horoscope Matching is one of the most valuable aspect of Indian Vedic Astrology that is being used since ancient times for finding out the compatibility of the prospective bride and the groom before marriage. Horoscope matching is also known as Kundli Matching, and is indeed a gift for one's married life. The more qualities (gunas) match the more is the compatibility of the bride and the groom. Horoscope matching easily tells about the ability of two people working nicely together. In Western astrology such details is not available. Though through this technique we can do the compatibility analysis but the results won't be as accurate as in Vedic astrology. Vedic Astrology is Extremely Thorough Nothing can ever compare to the depth and accuracy of Vedic Astrology. Western astrology can't match up to the profound layers of the Vedic system of wisdom and insight. In Vedic astrology we use nakshatras to refine the meaning and expression of the chart. The messages and themes of your current life is evaluated by the time-systems (dashas). Dozens of aspects (Vargas)can help in extracting the details of every part of your life- from marriage to death, to good phase to bad phase of life. Western astrology on the other hand uses sun mostly for predictions as well as progression because of which for many years that their system is unable to make successful predictions. Muhurta In Vedic astrology finding a good muhurta is very important to start any new work. Muhurta is all about selecting the most auspicious time to get successful in whatever you want to do. The Vedic astrologers calculate the auspicious time by analyzing the cosmic position continuously for the window period to start anything new or take any important decision. In western astrology on the other hand, such accurate way of calculating the best time to start a new venture is not available. Future Prediction The future prediction in western astrology is based on composition, alignment, speed and movement of the present transits. The Western astrology is not very good in event predictions instead it holds more importance in prediction mainly used to describe changes of a person's attitude or how the planets will have an influence on his character. In Vedic astrology future prediction is based on the current planetary phase or the change in the position of the planets in a person's birth chart. Thus, every planet rules your house for a certain time period. Interestingly that time period can be good or bad depending on the nature of the ruling planet. For example: Sun rules for 6 years and Saturn rules for 19 years. Thus, future predictions are more accurate and pin-pointed in Vedic astrology. Accuracy Vedic astrology seems to be more upright in comparison to western astrology because it relies on more accurate astronomical principles. The best thing about Vedic astrology is that the astrologers not only assess the natal chart over here but also the dasas, the periods of different planets moving through different signs and their influence in their lives. Also, Vedic Astrology focuses on Moon sign over the Sun sign. Why should this bring inaccurate results is that Moon changes its sign in 2.25 days whereas the Sun changes its sign in around a month and thus the predications based on Moon are more accurate since our moods and situation changes frequently. Secondly, moon governs the mind and emotions, thus results based on moon's placement leads to more relevant predictions and analysis. Vedic Astrology, thus can provide more concrete and detail-oriented methods of predictions than western astrology. Rising Sign Both Vedic and western astrology use planets, signs and houses to prepare the chart. However, Vedic astrology considers "you" to be the rising sign, because it shows the sign that was rising on the eastern horizon at the exact moment you were born. This gives more accurate than using a "sun sign" to prepare your chart that is used in Western astrology. The reason why we are saying this is that even though for 30 days the sun was in that same sign. Yet, your rising sign was considered to be the exact moment on the day you were born. There is no denying fact that the sun is important, but so are the other planets, especially the moon - when you are preparing an astrology chart. Better Remedies Vedic astrology includes astrological gemology, color therapy, mantra therapy and many other systems for adjusting the negative effect of planets in our lives. Western Astrology does not offer such remedy which is the major reason why western systems can't surpass the tremendous power of the Vedic Astrology. Emphasis on Karma Western astrology emphasizes on evaluating the psychological nature of an individual, but lacks accuracy for predicting future events. Vedic astrology on the other hand gives more predictable results in analyzing when certain events are likely to take place. Vedic astrology is based on karma and hence very well defines an individual's karmic tendencies and when these tendencies can be manifested to the profit of that individual. There is no such method in western astrology to use karma to reap the benefits in future. Yearly Predictions Yearly predictions based on Vedic astrology are more accurate and reliable than those based on Western astrology. All these sign based predictions are generic. In western astrology, yearly prediction is done using the sun sign so, all persons born in the same month fall into the same sun sign. They would be inheriting a certain set of characteristics. However, when we do the yearly prediction using moon signs two persons though born in the same month but at different times may have different birth stars. This is the reason why the predictions based on Vedic astrology are more accurate. You would have often wondered to see that according to Western astrology, your Sun sign is Aries but in Vedic system, it changes to Cancer. You might also find difference in your rising sign and the positioning of other planets into unfamiliar signs. This happens because both Vedic astrology and Western astrology calculate a horoscope differently. Both of them use different methods to predict about a person's nature, behavior, life events and important predictions. Since, Western system is a Solar-based system it is better at evaluating the characteristic and psychological patterns. The Vedic system on the other hand is much better at describing the soul nature and predicting the future events because it is based on the lunar system which has fixed constellation leading to more accurate results. Another reason why Vedic system is better than western system is that it uses the Dasa Predictive system. A planetary Dasa remains for 6 to 20 years depending on the planet concerned. Vedic astrology not only analyzes the situation but it also determines the result of karma, and gives a solution to lessen the negative effect of planets ruling your house. Thus, Vedic system is more accurate because it has remained intact since years and the foundation of Vedic system is the knowledge used in modern astronomy with regard to any astronomical phenomena occurring within the system. So let's take pride in our Vedic system!
